Richard Hawk

Fee Range: $5,001 - $7,500

It's rare to find someone who is both an experienced safety professional and an entertaining speaker. Amazingly, Richard fits the bill.

While his depth of knowledge and experience make for content-rich sessions (Richard gained 15 years of practical experience first as a safety engineer in the nuclear industry then as a safety consultant for a wide variety of industries), his theater background enables him to make his presentations fun, exciting and, most importantly, effective.

Richard is the creator and publisher of the one-of-a-kind, world-renowned e-zine "Safety Stuff," a clearing house of ideas for safety leaders on making safety fun.

An accomplished guitarist and singer/songwriter, Richard weaves original songs and parodies into his presentations and uses all manner of innovative props, prizes, competitions and stories. Audiences can't help but participate, learn and have fun.
